

Free mental health support for people affected by the bushfires...

Call Healthy Minds
1300 160 339

between 8.30am – 5pm
Monday to Friday.

No referral needed.

Free face-to-face or telephone counselling services with a mental health practitioner, such as a psychologist or mental health social worker, will provide people with strategies and techniques to manage their mental health

Healthy Minds services are available across the north coast of NSW.

If you're a Mid North Coast or Northern NSW residents who has been affected by the bushfires, you are being encouraged to access free mental health support via the local Healthy Minds program.

The stress of experiencing something such as a bushfire can leave people at a higher risk of developing depression or anxiety, even if they are not directly dealing with loss of property and/or possessions.

"At North Coast PHN, we are coordinating a mental health response that includes widening the eligibility criteria for the Healthy Minds program. Persons affected by the local fires can now book in for free face-to-face Healthy Minds counselling services and do not require a referral from their GP to commence supports."

Julie Sturgess, North Coast PHN

Please note, Healthy Minds is for people experiencing mild to moderate mental health concerns and is not a crisis service. If you require immediate support, please contact Lifeline on 13 11 14 or Beyond Blue on 1300 22 4636. For children under 12 years, call the Kids Helpline on 1800 551 800. In an emergency, please call 000 or go to your nearest hospital emergency department.

The intake for Healthy Minds is now being managed by Neami National through their Connect to Wellbeing North Coast program. Connect to Wellbeing North Coast has been made possible by funding from North Coast Primary Health Network.
